NGALIM FRANKLIN NJAIWO

Bienvenue/ Welcome to my Eportfolio,

Food for Thought:

"One of the greatest tragedies in life is to watch potential die untapped. A greater tragedy is to watch potential live unreleased" (Dr Myles Munroe, Maximizing Your Potental, The Keys to Dying Empty)

Every individual is a living treasure chest. I strive to unlock and share all the treasures in me and that is why i am here. Feel free to contact me via Nixty or dukefranky@yahoo.ca for together, we can make the world a sustainable living place for generations to come.

Recommendation from Sanja Panovska Milanova
Ibrahim's suggestions and comments were really encouraging and helpful and I was always looking forward reading it. He has experience and knowledge in this field that every teacher wishes for. He has been an excellent mentor.

Recommendation from Sabri Eltayeb
Ibrahim's experience in education has really helped me throughout my courses. He always gives me good feedback that causes me to expand on the ideas and concepts taught in each subject.He has been a wonderful mentor.

Recommendation from Eliana Zemmer
Ibrahim's concern for creating a more positive education environment for his students was strongly felt and I admired this adaptability and flexibility to best meet students' needs. I enjoyed his lesson plans and proposals and got valuable inputs from his teaching experience.

Ellen is a teacher out of vocation and I learned a lot from her. With her commitment, creativity and concern for student-centered education she was inspiration and motivation to me. A competent and open colleague whose blog and constant action and sharing of lesson learned positively impacted my work and approach
